

Power connection in the side sections

The power connection for side sections is designed in a way that all cables, guide ducts and spiral hosing are routed for every possible tilt angle of the articulation. Additionally, cables and hoses already installed in the side sections can be easily incorporated.

back to power connection systems