

Gas-assisted injection molding (GID)

High-grade surfaces

Gas-assisted injection molding (GID) gives our customers additional freedom of design. With it, we can manufacture elongated, highly stressed plastic parts with a large cross section or conventionally designed parts with additional compaction - such as door handles and parts of casing. These are, for example, complicated shapes with high-grade surfaces such as roof fins with sophisticated designs for the automotive antenna technology.